FRENCH HAVE STOPPED THE BIG GERMAN DRIVE TOWARD CITY OF PARIS

OFFENSIVE LASTED EIGHT DAYS AND ENEMY MOVEMENT IS NOW SPLITTING UP INTO SERIES OF BATTLES FOR POSITION, THE FRENCH HAVING ADVANTAGE

AMERICAN TROOPS THROWN INTO BATTLE IN THE CHAMPAGNE SALIENT STOP GERMAN ADVANCE

Hun Troops Prevented From Making Any Progress Between Oise and the Aisne, But Enemy Made Slight Advance at One Point Between Marne and the Ourcq, Capturing Village of Neuilly-La-Poterie—Germans Who Had Forced Passage of the River Marne Driven Back By French and American Troops—Situation Is Reported More Hopeful

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, June 4.—The French have stopped the German drive toward Paris. It now may safely be said. As was forecast when the offensive began, it lasted just eight days. The enemy movement is now splitting up into a series of battles for positions in which the French have the advantage of terrain.

The region of Ourcq where the enemy is making his greatest efforts forms roughly an area into which he is marching. On the northern side of the area, the dominating physical feature is the forest of Villers-Cotteret, and on the south there are hills ranging toward the Marne around Cocherel. Both of these hill positions are held by the French.

On the west the enemy is confronted by the obstacles formed by the rivers Ourcq and Savieres, so that he is held in on three sides. Between the Oise and the Aisne the Germans last night were prevented from making any progress, says today's official statement.

The Germans have made a further advance at one point between the Marne and the Ourcq capturing the village of Neuilly-La-Poterie (seven and one-half miles northwest of Chateau-Thierry.)

American troops, thrown into the battle on the western side of the Champagne salient have stopped the German advance near Neuilly wood and in a dashing counter-attack have thrown back the Germans, the war office announced today.

On the Marne German troops which had forced a passage of the river were driven back again by the French and American troops. The German advance of the Aisne sector seems to be developing into a race for Paris and recalls the race for the sea after the battle of the Marne. In 1914 it was a question primarily of speed, each side trying to out pace the other and turn his opponents' wing. The present contest is a race of effectiveness with each contestant trying to bring up as many men as possible in the shortest possible time in order to be numerical master of the situation.

In the offensive begun March 21, the Germans intended to capture Amiens and the channel ports. The effort, however, was not of a nature to bring about immediate results. The Germans realized this and in their haste to finish matters resumed the march toward Paris for a third time, thinking that success would mean an end of the war. The enemy now is apparently risking all in a formidable attempt to reach Paris.

PATROL AVIATORS ADRIFT IN OCEAN RESCUED BY BOAT

(Associated Press Telegram)
Nantucket, Mass., June 4.—Two American aviators, Ensign Roleau and Mechanic Harrington were brought to port today by the patrol boat Sadie which had rescued them from their disabled biplane after it drifted ten miles southeast of Nantucket Head at the east end of the island. The machine sank soon after the two men were taken off. They had been forced by engine trouble to alight on the water yesterday.

RATE REVISIONS TO BE ORDERED

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—Hundreds of local and special rate revisions will be ordered by Director General McAdoo before June 25 when the new rate schedules go into effect, the railroad administration announced today.

INTERURBAN INCREASES RATES
Columbus, June 4.—The Springfield and Xenia Railway company has been authorized by the public utilities commission to increase its passenger fares to 2 1/2 cents, effective June 10. There were no protests against the proposed increase.

SUCCESSFUL AIR RAID OF ALLIES; PEOPLE IN PANIC

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—A recent allied air raid on Cologne caused the death of 145 persons, the state department was informed today. About 150 were injured. The people of Cologne the department's advisers said, were thrown into a state of "the most absolute panic."

WOUNDED AMERICANS ARRIVE AT HOSPITAL

(Associated Press Telegram)
Nice, France, Monday, June 3.—The first batch of wounded American soldiers who had been amalgamated with French troops arrived at Nice today. They were sent to the American hospital here.

Apparently the foregoing refers to American troops who have been brigaded with the French according to the plan announced some time ago. Whether they were wounded in the fighting in the present offensive or while acting with the French in other sectors is not clear. The main body of Americans placed in the line with the French against the Germans since the March offensive started is in the Cantigny sector southeast of Amiens where they have made a brilliant record in the capture and holding of the town of Cantigny.

LARGE AIRSHIP WAS FORCED TO DESCEND

(Associated Press Telegram)
Hagerstown, Md., June 4.—A naval airship in charge of two lieutenants, which left Akron, Ohio, last night bound for the Atlantic coast descended near here today, when a stuck valve allowed so much gas to leak from the bag that the airship could not proceed. The officers in charge began dismantling the airship preparatory to its being shipped to its destination.

HUN FUN—SHELLING ALLIES' REST CAMP; AERIAL GUNS SPOIL SPORT FREQUENTLY

French Soldiers Fighting Fire In Rest Camp, and One of Guns Used to Down Hun Planes

Hun aviators apparently get considerable pleasure out of soiling over the rest camps, built behind the lines by the French troops, and dropping bombs on the buildings in which the French boys are recuperating from long hours in the trenches. The upper picture shows some of these French lads fighting a small fire started in one of the camps by a bomb from a German airplane. The other picture shows one of the "Archies," the guns used by the French to bring down the air raiders. The guns are doing good work.

The light engine was in charge of W. E. Smith, who was severely injured. His brakeman and fireman were less seriously injured. A number of porters and draymen on the equipment train were badly injured and five were killed. Following are those killed: Engineer Wilbur Evans, Fireman Clyde Boyer, Conductor Charles Wolf, Head Brakeman Shelton. A porter, name unknown. The dead and injured were taken to Wadsworth.

STEAMER CITY OF COLUMBUS IS SAFE IN PORT

At an Atlantic Port, June 4.—The City of Columbus of the Savannah line, which it was feared had been sunk by a German submarine, is safe in an Atlantic port harbor.

While the City of Columbus was anchored some distance from shore there was no evidence that she had been damaged by submarines. At the time she came into the harbor it had not been known here that she had been reported sunk. No boat had come ashore half an hour after the ship's arrival.

The City of Columbus had been at anchor for some time before her identity was discovered. The vessel entered the harbor shortly after the arrival of a ship operated by the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation company reached here and the fact that no messages was immediately sent ashore was taken to mean that the vessel merely had sought refuge and that all was well aboard.

SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

(Associated Press Telegram)
Portsmouth, O., June 4.—George Washington Baker and Paulino Panatoni today were sentenced to the electric chair by Common Pleas Judge Thomas for the murder of A. Hubman, a grocer, while attempting to rob him. Friday, September 13 was set as the date of execution. The prisoners pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge.

Death Toll Will Be Small While All Ships Sunk Were Coastwise and Sailing Vessels With Total Destroyed of Less Than 20,000 Tonnage—Nearly All Vessels Have Been Accounted For in Statement Made By the Navy Department This Afternoon—Nothing Heard Today of the Submarines Along Atlantic Coast

(Associated Press Telegram)
An Atlantic Port, June 4.—Three hundred of the passengers and crew of the torpedoed steamship Carolina were picked up at sea in open boats by the schooner Etta B. Douglass. The schooner anchored a mile off an inlet near here at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon apparently awaiting orders regarding the disposition of the ship wrecked cargo.

Captain Barbour reported to his owners today through navy officials who transmitted the message. He was not aware apparently of the 19 survivors landed at Lewes, Delaware, early in the day. The captain's message definitely confirmed the report that the Carolina has been sunk. In addition seven members of the crew landed at the inlet wharf by a coast guard life boat. They consisted of Martin Carroll, of Newark, N. J. and six Porto Ricans.

The men "lashed long enough to say they 'had a tough time'" and then they were whisked off to the coast guard station where they were supplied with much needed food. With the landing of nineteen survivors of the missing steamship Carolina of the New York and Porto Rico line, the persons unaccounted for from this ship numbered 331, of whom 202 are passengers.

The City of Columbus of the Savannah line arrived at an Atlantic port bringing safely her passengers and crew numbering 117 who had been listed as missing. Also at Atlantic ports arrived the steamship Gremlin with the missing crew of the sunken schooner Jacob M. Haskell, the Governor Cobb, a United States shipping board training ship with two hundred apprentice seamen aboard; the steamship Dorchester of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company and the Clyde liner Huron from a southern port.

The coming to harbor of all these vessels left unaccounted for, in addition to the Carolina's missing, only the exact number, unknown, here of the schooner, Samuel W. Hathaway of Boston.

While the country has been startled by the appearance of the enemy raider on this side of the Atlantic, the fact stood out today that although it has been in American waters 10 days its success from a military point of view has been negligible. No transport nor ship bound with war supplies for Europe has been sunk. The total destroyed amounts to something over 20,000 tons gross, all coastwise ships, seven of them sailing vessels.

boat from the torpedoed Carolina came ashore in the center of this resort this afternoon. It carried 23 passengers—many of them women—and seven of the crew.

This probably accounts for all of the 340 passengers and crew of the Carolina. Shortly before 3 o'clock a second boatload of survivors of the Carolina rowed ashore here.

NINETEEN MORE SAVED.

New York, June 4.—A boat from the steamship Carolina containing 19 survivors—including two women—has landed at Lewes, Del. This message was received by the New York and Porto Rico line today (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4.)

NEW YORK WILL GUARD AGAINST ALL AIR RAIDS

New York, June 4.—The police department today issued an order that all display lights in New York City at night are "forbidden until further notice."

No reason was given for the order but the presumption is that because of the presence of enemy submarines in American waters the authorities are taking precautions against the possibility of air raids by airplanes launched from U-boats.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES FURTHER LEGISLATION

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—President Wilson today declared his opposition to further prohibition legislation until the food administration decided it is necessary to conserve foodstuffs. His position was made known in a letter to Senator Shepard of Texas. A house amendment to the agriculture bill would prevent the expenditure of $6,000,000 unless the president prevents the use of grain in the production of alcoholic liquors.

CHIEF OF TELEGRAPHERS' ORGANIZATION IS IN CONFERENCE OVER THE STRIKE SITUATION

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union announced today that he would call a strike of telegraphers after he reached Chicago, whence he will go tomorrow. The strike call he said, will go out by mail, which probably will take three days for its delivery.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—A decision as to whether he will call a strike of Commercial Telegraph operators will be made, S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Telegraphers Union, announced today after he reaches Chicago, whence he will go tomorrow. "We are not in any hurry about going out," he said.

Koenekamp made the announcement after conferences with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and members of congress at which he discussed the possibility of government control of wire lines. The strike, it called, Koenekamp said today, will not affect the operation of railroads. Where operators handle both railroad and commercial business they will refuse to handle commercial messages only, he said.

Members of the telegraphers' union were notified today to prepare for a strike. The notice, sent to locals, said a strike appeared inevitable in view of the refusal of the Western Union to abide by the decision of the war labor board that telegraphers should be permitted to organize. Employees both of the Western Union and the Postal companies received the notification.

After a conference with Secretary of Labor Wilson, Koenekamp said the secretary could not promise that the Western Union would be made to adhere to the labor board's ruling and that unless some plan was offered he would call a strike when he reached Chicago.

Secretary Wilson later laid the situation before President Wilson. Whether there will be a strike of the commercial telegraphers of the country depended today largely on the outcome of a conference here between S. J. Koenekamp, president of the telegraphers union and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The conference was a continuation of one begun yesterday following which it was announced by Mr. Koenekamp that no strike would be called until after today's conference.

Announcement was made Sunday by the National war labor board that it had been unable to settle differences between the operators and the Western Union Telegraph company as to the right of the company to discharge union men.

CRIPPLED SHIP PICKED UP AT SEA BY A TUG

New York, June 4.—News reached here today that an American tanker damaged as a result of a fight with a German submarine off the American coast had arrived at an Atlantic port. Naval tug picked up the crippled vessel at sea and towed her in. Details were withheld for the time. The tanker's hull was punctured and she has shipped a considerable quantity of water.

The steamship Dorchester of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company has arrived safely at an Atlantic port according to word received here today. Her arrival relieved the anxiety which had been felt concerning her.

The regular meeting of the city council was held last night at 7:45 o'clock with all members present. The minutes of the last meeting was approved and filed.

The report of the mayor was read by Clerk J. S. Woodward and the amount collected from licenses and fines during the month of May amounted to $460. Report received and filed.

The street committee reported on the following:

That a petition had been filed from the property owners on South Second street asking that a sewer be constructed on that street between Summit and Beacon streets. They recommended that the necessary legislation be passed as an emergency measure.

A petition from property owners on Leonard avenue, asking that the street be dedicated for public use as a part of the city. Passed until waivers are secured.

A petition from the property owners in the vicinity of the alley between Day avenue and Williams street, asking that the alley be opened to West Main street. The committee recommended that the city accept Mr. Lamp's alley and continue the same through to Day avenue.

A petition signed by John Baird and 37 other property owners abutting the first alley south of Log Pond run from Fourth street to Elmwood avenue, asking that the same be graded. Legislature deferred until the signature of all property owners is secured. The report was received and filed.

Solicitor Henry C. A. Ashcraft reported on a number of communications received in regard to the repaving of East Main street. The work is being delayed by the inability of the Federal Asphalt Co. and the Ohio Electric Railway Co. to secure materials.

The city asphalt company and the Ohio Electric are all ready and anxious to go through with the contract, but not being able to secure the material can do nothing. Solicitor Ashcraft has taken the matter up with the State Highway Department. The War Industries Board, priority department, and Congressman W. A. Ashbrook in an effort to get priority orders for the materials needed and has received application blanks from the above named board for priority orders to be filled out by the asphalt company and the Ohio Electric for the materials each need. The State Highway Department and Congressman W. A. Ashbrook promised to do everything in their power to get the orders through. As the matter stands now it is up to the above named companies to file their applications and until they are heard from the matter is practically at a standstill.

The director of public service reported that the contract of the city with C. O. Harris for the removal of garbage expired on June 30 and asked that some arrangements be made for the disposal of the same. Referred to the service committee.

An ordinance was offered by Councilman Newkirk authorizing the clerk of council to sign a contract with the Chamber of Commerce and the A. E. Small Co., of New York, for a municipal survey, the city's share of the expense to be $2,500. Passed on suspension of the rules.

An ordinance by Councilman Baker to levy special assessments for the improvement of West Main street, between the Raccoon Creek and Sixth street, by constructing a sewer therein. Passed on suspension.

An ordinance was introduced by Councilman Keyes to levy special assessments for the improvement of Neil avenue, between West Main and Church streets, by paving. Passed on suspension.

A resolution on its second reading by Councilman Riggs was adopted to appropriate property for street purposes, connecting Merchant street with Webb Place.

Under miscellaneous business Councilman Newkirk called the council's attention to a method of city disposing of garbage by selling the same to hog producers. He read several letters from other cities who have adopted this plan, and they have found it a most practical way of increasing the city's revenue. He had the data showing that the army camps alone will clear more than a million dollars from this source by giving the contracts to firms that dispose of garbage in this manner. He said that if it was profitable for these cities and firms to do this he could not see why it would not be profitable for Newark. Owing to the fact that the contract with C. O. Harris expires on June 30, he recommended that the council look into the matter before the contract is renewed. Councilman Knauber said there was much comment on the removal of the pump on the South side of the square, which had been there for a number of years, and at present there is no drinking water obtainable on the square, except the city water, which very few people will drink, and he suggested that the city drill on the public square for an artesian well. If the city would not appropriate the necessary money he had no doubt that the money could be raised by popular subscription. This action of Councilman Knauber should be carried out without hesitation because the water of the city has a reputation, not the best, and there is no place for anyone to obtain a drink of good water any place down town. An artesian well was put down on the water works property and a steady flow of excellent water is being obtained. The expense of this would be small and the well would be an advertisement for the city, as they have been for other cities.

SET ADRIFT, DISCOVERS LAND

Priest, Offending Chief, Saved Life and Later Returned With Story of Interesting Find.

New Zealand is Maoriland, the home of a most interesting race. About one thousand years ago there lived on the Isle Hanaki the forefathers of the Maori. One of their priests, Te Kupe, relates a writer in the Mississippi Blatter, had offended the chief, and to prevent his being killed his friends sent him, provided with provisions enough to last some time, adrift over the sea in a canoe. Home and friends he would never see again, he thought, and by his people he was mourned as one dead. To the joy of the islanders he returned after 12 months, giving them a glowing description of the wonderful land he had discovered. His information caused a stirring agitation, and in a short time seven canoes were fitted out by the natives to sail to the land of promise and settle there.

Te Kupe was leading in the first canoe across the wide sea, and on their landing, to honor him, called it "Aetora"—New Zealand.

"The seed of our race comes from Hanaki," said a missionary, and there can be no doubt about the original dwelling place, and that the present Maoris are the descendants of those who sailed centuries ago from Hanaki.

SAVE YOUR WHEAT SAYS MR. CROXTON

Federal Food Administrator Croxtan has just given to the press the following telegram from United States Food Administrator Hoover.

"Reports have been circulated that Food Administration officials state further wheat conservation not necessary. No statement of the character has ever been issued. The actual position is that our supplies until harvest allow home consumption of approximately one-third normal if we are to maintain allied supplies. The actual position is that in farmers hands and storage we had at the beginning of May 75,000,000 bushels of wheat to carry us for approximately three months or with an early harvest perhaps two weeks shorter. Our normal consumption for three months would be one hundred twenty seven million bushels, not allowing allies anything."

ARTICHOKE IS EASY TO GROW

Favorite Vegetable, Declared to Be Valuable Article of Food for Both Man and Beast.

The Jerusalem artichoke deserves to be much better known in this country, which is its native land, for it is one of the favorite vegetables in all parts of Europe, it is easy to grow, and a most valuable article of food for man and beast. Prof. T. D. A. Cockerell of the University of Colorado extols its merits in the Scientific Monthly and tells some most interesting facts about it.

Its name is a curiosity to etymology. The word "artichoke" is derived from the Moorish "alkharshof," which was applied to the true, or globe artichoke, of which we eat the flower-head with its thickened bracts and the delicate "bottom." This plant, which is of the thistle family, is a native of the old world. The Jerusalem artichoke, Helianthus tuberosus, is a tuber which grows on the roots of a sunflower. It was well-known and much used by the natives of America before the coming of Columbus. It was introduced into France early in the seventeenth century and was grown in the Farnese gardens in Rome, whence it was distributed throughout Europe under the name of Girasole Articoceo, or sunflower artichoke. "The name artichoke," writes Professor Cockerell, "appears to have been given to the Helianthus solely on account of the more or less similar flavor, while 'Jerusalem' is an English corruption of the Italian 'Girasole, or sunflower.'"

WHERE INFORMATION LEAKS.

The American people are naturally so frank and open-hearted that it has been very difficult for us to realize the danger from spies.

Formerly anyone could visit any of our forts or arsenals. The Germans have no doubt complete plans of all our defenses and of all war material plants.

As regard the leaking of information about war plans, movement of troops, etc., there are abundant channels of information. One of the most important is at Washington. Diplomats have always called that city the most loose tongued capital in the world. Well guarded state secrets have always had a way of leaking out with a speed that astonished the heads of departments.

According to tradition, many of the spies who get the secret stuff are women. They are pictured as being of a fast adventures type, who fascinate men in a position to know things, and drag information from the secret recesses of their minds. Probably very little leaks out in that way. A good deal is said to come from innocent young women who hear their husbands and fathers tell important things, and repeat them unthinkingly to people who are listening for a purpose.

Some information is said to leak out at dinners where public men gather. All is sedate until champagne flows. Then some of our wise men begin to let out their most secret thoughts to plausible people whom they have just met.

That kind of thing is not confined to Washington. We have many thousands of men who know the things the spies want to find out. They should be careful about in gratiating strangers.

ADVERTISED GOODS.

It is no mere blind faith in printer's ink that leads the public to have faith in advertised goods. It is because the public knows that when the merchant calls attention in type to a certain proposition, he knows that it is a good one.

A merchant who should invite people to his store to buy an article that he knew wouldn't give satisfaction, would be a fool. He knows that when he solicits attention to it in this public way, he must have something that a customer will be satisfied with.

Advertised goods are indispensible goods, guaranteed by the seller. He does not give these goods that endorsement to a thing he knows nothing about. He advertises stuff he has tried out and knows its value. If he has anything doubtful to work off, he puts it in his window or displays it on some special counter with a price tag on it. That conveys no particular endorsement.

When a person buys stuff displayed in that way, he doesn't particularly blame the merchant if the thing fails to make good. He blames himself for being so eager to snap up what looked like a bargain but wasn't.

Of course merchants frequently do work off cheap goods by advertising. But notice how careful they are not to exaggerate the value, and to see that the customer understands just what grade he is getting. The advertising makes for frankness and truth telling.

When a merchant comes out in a newspaper and says that he has some line of special value, it can be depended upon that he is telling the truth. Never yet in the long experience the Advocate has had with the stores and people of Newark have we heard it claimed that one of our merchants advertised a bargain that wasn't a good value.

STIMULATING PRODUCTION.

It takes some knowledge of human nature to run a war work plant. When the product comes along slowly and the army and the people clamor for more rapid deliveries, it may not be effective to denounce the men as slackers. That has in a good many cases been true. But you can't drive an American workman as if he were a slave to the Kaiser.

In some war plants it has been said that the more pay was given, the less the more would work. That has not been the case in the great majority of shops however. If handled right, the American workman can be made to put his whole heart into this proposition.

The first thing to make apparent to him is that the employer is not seeking to get rich out of this business. The employer will do well to be frank in this matter, as the idea may spread itself that he is getting a lot richer than he is. In so far as profiteering exists among employers, the example will be quickly followed by the help.

It has been an excellent idea to start among the shipyard employees the idea of riveting championships. Anything that creates competition has a wonderful affect to stimulate energy. A man will do things to maintain his reputation for skill and speed, that he wouldn't do for money, and some men wouldn't do for patriotism.

Instruction about the reasons for the war help. All patriotic motion picture films should be shown in the towns where war work is going on. The best popular lectures should tell the employees what we are up against, and how delay means the loss of our fine soldier boys and the prolongation of the war. These are the methods that are producing a splendid production in many war plants, and they should be universally employed.

A DEFENSIVE CAMPAIGN

"Why don't the allies go ahead and do something," asked a woman the other day. "I am sick of this waiting around. Why don't they go ahead and march to Berlin?"

This is a kind of talk that one hears frequently from people who are not studying the war news with any care.

The allies for the present are having to contend with the great army that was liberated from the Eastern front by the collapse of Russia.

A million troops was thus set free to fall on the French and British line. In addition 600,000 new troops were secured, mostly from boys just come of draft age. For the time being this has given the Germans a big reserve. This reserve they can transport to any sector, and can fall on the French and British and push them back by superior numbers.

But they probably used up 400,000 of this 1,500,000 in the drive beginning March 22. Half as many more will go in the attack just strated on the Aisne. The weekly casualty list can't be under 25,000 men. It is easy to see what will become of that 1,500,000 men next winter.

For the time being there seems little for the allies but to conduct a defensive campaign. The loss of ten miles or so by such an attack as that of the Aisne amounts to little. As long as the allies are swapping two of their men to three of the Germans, it is all to the good. When that reserve has gone, when the Americans finally get 1,000,000 men over there armed and equipped, there will be something doing.

The only loss of territory that can amount to anything will be territory lost on the part of the line next the channel ports. Behind that line great reserves are held ready. Elsewhere the allies can keep retreating in perfect confidence so long as the game of two men for three goes on.

A. L. J. writes to ask what should be done with the men who deliberately set poor seed at such a time as this? Don't be too harsh with them. After they get too hungry, let them dig up their seed and eat it.

Some of the people who spend so much time fretting because our army does not advance on the Germans, are the same ones who insult the allies of the German, the insect pest, to eat out our gardens.

It is no doubt true that the man who doesn't advertise can reduce his expenses, as the small volume of his trade will permit him to let his help go.

The Germans are beginning to find out that those silly sport loving Americans can pitch a hand grenade just as well as a baseball.

In preparation for observance of the anti looting regulations, some people are already buying carefully "stuffed" office chairs.

"FIGHT OR WORK" ORDER

(New York Commercial.)
 If federal and state authorities can make every man between 18 and 50 years of age fight or work America will be a better place in which to live. Mothers, wives and sisters of loafers are weeping and wailing because the men who impose on them may have to soil their hands, but both women and men will be happier and better off if these new laws and rules have teeth.

Honest toil makes men self-respecting. Easy jobs and sinecures corrupt or weaken a man's moral stamina. Many a good man has been ruined by being elected or appointed to some public office with good pay for little work. If he loses it he usually spends the rest of his life seeking another sinecure, the world acquiring a notion that he owes him a living. The number of former petty office-holders who degenerate into gamblers, touts and worse is startling. They think they have a "pull" and try to live on it.

Compulsory work of essential character will weed out thousands of men working indoors whose places can be filled by women and men too old to fight. Such men, working under government orders, will receive higher wages than they now get as dish-washers, elevator runners, doormen, firemen, etc. This will give employment to women and older men. Thousands of elderly men capable of doing light work will receive employment and again become self-supporting. Society will gain in a hundred ways by general employment in gainful occupations, and none can point to any detriment to public interests.

In New York City the efficiency of the police and other officials charged with enforcing these rules and laws will be gauged with ease and certainty. Gamblers, confidence men, touts, white slavers, cocaine and morphine peddlers, pickpockets and others who prey on the public congregated by hundreds in the neighborhood of Broadway and Forty-second street, which is the center of the city's night life. As long as these birds of prey remain unmolested the "fight-or-work" laws will be a farce. The police know them and the women who work for them. They cannot pick up the enough money in quieter parts of the city to keep good clothes on their backs. As long as they escape the dragnet other men who witness their immunity will be encouraged to defy the law.

Enforcement is no easy task. It will not do to drive men out of their present employment without providing work for them at fair wages. Loafers and birds of prey may be handled without gloves, but those who are now working must not be forced into temporary idleness and the condition of the poor must not be made worse than it is. A constructive law must not become destructive in the hands of incompetent officials.

WOMEN OF SHAKESPEARE

Danish Critic Interestingly Sums Up Joys and Sorrows of Many Characters of Noted Writer.

An interesting commentary upon the women of Shakespeare has been compiled by Dr. George Brundage, the Danish critic. He sums up their joys and sorrows, their virtues and frailties, as follows:

Katharine, "Taming of the Shrew." High-spirited, self-willed, but lovable. Beatrice, "Much Ado About Nothing." High intellect, combative, energetic, dashing witty. Rosalind, "As You Like It." Gay without a sting, sensitive and intelligent; loving passionately and being passionately loved. Viola, "Twelfth Night." Sound of understanding, emotional, deep and patient, with great power of passive love. Lady Macbeth, "Macbeth." Wicked even to the point of brutality under stress of passionate love and great ambition. Portia, "Merchant of Venice." Thoroughly genuine, almost masculine, yet most womanly in power of self-surrender. Helena, "Love's Labor Lost." High-souled type of loving and cruelly tolerant woman.

Tamora, "Titus Andronicus." Powerful intellect, defiant of morality. Juliet, "Romeo and Juliet." Passionate love, yet under control of principle. Cordelia, "King Lear." Filial love, kindness of heart. Cleopatra, "Anthony and Cleopatra." Quintessentially erotic emotion chemically free from all other elements. Mariana, "Pericles." Nobility of character. Isabella, "Measure for Measure." Spotless purity of soul. Imogen, "Cymbeline." Born for happiness, inured to suffering, calm, collected. Hermione, "Winter's Tale." Majestically lovable, grand and gracious simplicity. Ophelia, "Hamlet." Unobtrusive affection, devotion even to insanity. Miranda, "The Tempest." All that is admirable in woman, maidenly, immaculate. Desdemona, "Othello." Victim of jealousy.

COLD IN NORTHERN SIBERIA

Ninety Degrees Below Zero Is Record for the Whole World—Eighty Above in Summer Time.

Turn up your collar, thrust your hands to the bottom of your pockets, and read about the "cold pole" of northern Siberia, where the natives speak patronizingly about Greenland's icy mountains and other such relatively balmy resorts. At the town of Verkhnyansk, which would probably never have had any inhabitants if the late czar's government had not sent occasional batches of exiles thither, says Popular Science Monthly, the temperature has been known to drop to 90 degrees below zero, which is a "record" for the whole world.

While the regions about the north and south poles of the earth are cold all the time, the Siberian cold pole gives its inhabitants a comfortable let-up in summer, when the thermometer frequently climbs up into the 80's above zero. During the brief summer season the life-giving rays of the sun, which remain about the horizon day and night for some time during the height of the season, exert an intense stimulating influence upon the vegetation, and the ground is covered with flowers.

Imitation Leather.

Linsed oil, certain paints, rosin, gum, and a chemical treatment—and we will have a compound as tough and as durable as leather! Such are the wonders of modern chemistry; from substances inelastic and useless of themselves, valuable commercial articles are being made, says the Popular Science Monthly.

The process for producing this imitation leather is based upon one discovered so long ago as 1864. At this time Frederick Walton found out how a durable and sanitary floor covering could be made. This covering—the forerunner of our modern linoleum—consisted of a strong canvas cloth covered with an oil-and-rosin compound heated and hardened while exposed to the air. A modification gives patent leather.

Modesty Before Royalty.

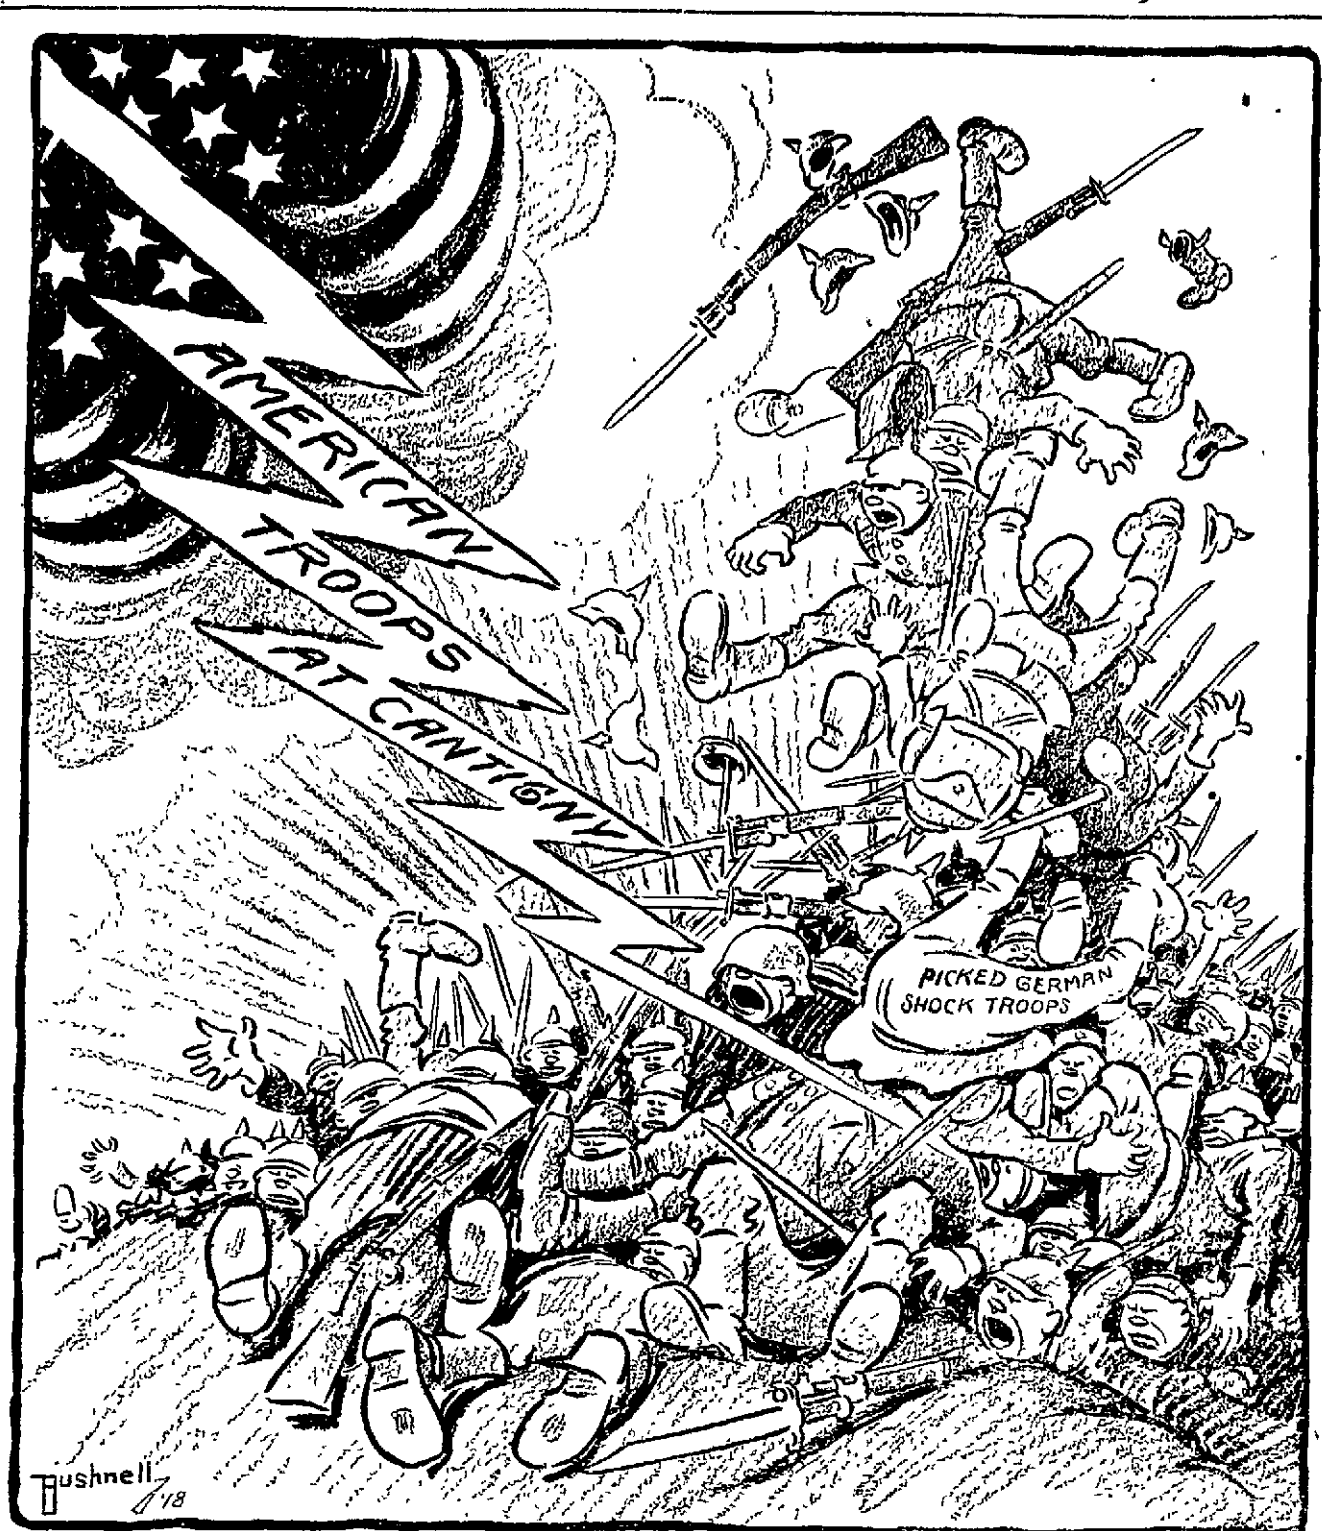

William Herschel, "explorer of the heavens," discovered the planet Uranus 137 years ago. At first he was not certain that the strange star was a planet, but subsequent observations by himself and other astronomers proved that such was the case. Herschel carried on his astronomical labors under the patronage of George III and named the planet Georgium Sidis in honor of the English monarch. Other English astronomers refused to accept this designation, and called the planet Herschel, after the discoverer. Continental scientists insisted that the old mythological system should be followed, and this plan was adopted, the name Uranus, suggested by Bode, being now accepted by all the scientific world. The planet Neptune was discovered in 1846.

Power of Mind Over Body.

The true physician will utilize power of the mind over the body. August Comte has said that doctors who bear in mind only the animal side of human nature should confine their practice to animals—they should become veterinary surgeons. At the same time, let us avoid falling into the other extreme. To say that "all is mind" is as wrong as to deny the influence of the mind over the body. Man has both body and mind—brain and brawn. Let us recognize and utilize both. In striving to achieve a high grade of efficiency, for in no other way may this be done. In short, let us avoid extremes. That seems, for many, to be the most difficult of all things.

Hit the other fellow first. It is more blessed to give than to receive.

CAMP SHERMAN NOTES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., June 4.—Remarkable improvement in the physical condition of men in the national army at Camp Sherman have been brought about through intensive training.

A noticeable decrease in patients at the base hospital was shown in the monthly report issued last night. The percentage of sick men from the ranks has decreased from 6.3 to 5.4. No deaths from natural causes have been reported in the past two weeks, the best record since the camp's inception nearly a year ago.

Officers point out that the decrease in patients at the hospital is due to the outdoor work through which a soldier goes. Many of the select, who came into camp in the first draft last fall, were men who seldom exercised and who were tied down to some desk throughout the day. Today these men are able to stand three times as much real physical work as they could have accomplished six months ago.

Although Lieutenant Colonel F. L. Case, of the camp quartermaster's department, was in Chicago yesterday for a conference with army officers, other officers were pleased when they read reports from Washington that preparations had been made to enlarge this cantonment.

Officers here recommended the lease of several additional tracts of land some two months ago. Among the tracts which will probably be added are 270 acres west of the camp proper, which will be used for grain sheds; 360 acres at Stoney Creek rifle-range, as an aviation field and 70 acres, to be used as a war garden and worked by Hun prisoners of war.

Did You Know

That work on the construction of the Lincoln Memorial was begun on Lincoln's birthday, February 12, 1914? It is being erected in Potomac Park on the axis of the United States Capitol and the Washington Monument, in accordance with plans prepared by Henry Bacon of New York City. The foundation was completed and the cornerstone laid February 12, 1915. By act of Congress, February 28, 1916, the limit of cost was increased to $2,594,000, to include the approaches. The whole amount has been appropriated and about $2,000,000 expended, the Memorial to be completed in four years from the beginning of the work. The foundation rises 45 feet above the present grade and will be surrounded by a mound of earth 1,000 feet in diameter. The exterior of the Memorial is composed of white Colorado Yule marble and the interior limestone. The only sculpture will be a colossal statue of Lincoln by Daniel French flanked by two bronze panels bearing Lincoln's Gettysburg and Second Inaugural addresses.

DEAN OF NEW ARMY SCHOOL OF NURSING APPEALS TO WOMEN

Miss Annie W. Goodrich, just appointed Dean of the Army School of Nursing which will train student nurses in connection with the hospitals, has issued, through the American Red Cross, the following call to nurses to enroll for the military hospitals and to young women to become student nurses in training schools for nurses:

"To every member of the profession a call goes out today that permits of no hesitation in the response. Each and every one of us is needed. Where our services can best be rendered, abroad, in the great military hospitals of our training camps or in the civil community is in great measure left for each of us to decide. Let us immediately make our decision and then throw ourselves, mind and body to the task which that field brings.

"To every young woman free to give her time and strength goes an appeal for our sick and wounded men and from the sick in our civil community that should command her highest service and that service is most immediately and fully rendered through the training schools of our army or civil hospitals. We know that our young women will answer as nobly to this call of their country as their brothers have.

"GETS-IT"--2 DROPS-- THEN TO THE DANCE!

hard and soft corns. If you will just touch the corn or callus with a few drops of 'Gets-It.' What a blessed relief it gives to corn pains. You won't bump any more, you can dance the dance every minute. Then to see how that corn or callus will come right off completely, like a banana peel and without the least pain, is just wonderful.

'Gets-It' is the biggest seller among corn removers in the world today, simply because it is so wonderfully simple and always works. In sure you get 'Gets-It.'

PERILS OF THE PANTOMIME

Chances Once Taken by Clowns, Harlequins and Pantalones—Clockwork Precision Was Necessary.

In speaking of his connection with the Fox American pantomimes, the late F. W. Hefele, once manager of the Old Bowery theater, told me that the making of those many mechanical tricks consumed much time. "T. W. W." writes in the New York Sun. Many skilled workmen were employed, as these devices had to work perfectly and not get stuck when in use. The duties of the stage manager were arduous indeed. From the time the stage manager tinkled his little bell for the rise of the curtain to his signal to ring down the act drop he was as busy a man as could be found anywhere in any capacity on earth.

Everything had to be done when the order was given to do it or everything would be instantly thrown out of trim, with the result of a confusion gone mad. Serious accidents are likely to happen to performers if the greatest care is not exercised. Take the work of Harlequin, that merry fellow with the magic sword, who is always dancing and gliding about with his lovely Columbine. What a hazardous part he plays. He is perpetually taking a leap in the dark, trusting to sheer luck as to whether he will do that leap safely or not. I saw Paul Martinetti come up through the star trap in the usual way on one occasion, but instead of leaving the trap in its place he took it up with him. The points of the star were sticking in his neck and the square framework was resting on his shoulders. When he landed on the floor he staggered a few steps, then righted himself and ran off the stage. As he continued his part he could not have been injured greatly. I think he was lucky not to have broken his collar-bone.

STORY OF A FAMOUS STATUE

Bronze Piece, Work of Leopardi, Cause of Quarrel Resulting in Its Being Badly Disfigured.

Another statue that has been conveyed by sea and landed safely in Rome is the great equestrian one of the famous General Colonna, which stood on its lofty pedestal in the Camp of St. Giovanni e Paolo. Ruskin says of it: "I do not believe there is a more glorious work of sculpture existing in the world." This statue is, of course, of bronze, and was modeled by the Florentine sculptor and painter Andrea Verrocchio in 1481, assisted by his more famous pupil, Leonardo da Vinci. Rev. Alexander Robertson writes in the Christian Herald. After Verrocchio's death, it was cast in bronze by Leopardi.

There is a story told to the effect that when Leopardi had finished his work, he quarreled with the republic over it. As he could not come to a settlement, he knocked off the horse's head and escaped to Florence. The republic ordered him to return, but he refused, saying: "I have knocked off the horse's head. It is true, but I can put it on again; but if I come to Venice and you take off my head, you could not put it on again." The republic forgave him, assured him of his life and reward, and he returned and finished his work.

Not Easy to "Get Off the Earth."

No great is the power of gravitation that man is practically a prisoner upon the earth's surface, even the aviator who temporarily escapes to a height of 20,000 feet or more. Yet a human being might leave it forever, if he made his departure at sufficient speed to overcome the weight of the ball upon which we live, 7,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

The muzzle velocity of a shell from the most powerful cannon is about 3,000 feet per second, but this projectile will fall to the ground after traversing a few miles, so its speed would have to be greatly exceeded by the individual desiring to penetrate into space.

If a projectile could be fired at a rate of 26,000 feet per second, writes Charles Nevers Holmes in Popular Science Monthly, it would probably never fall to the surface.

When science makes possible an initial velocity of 37,000 feet a second, about seven miles, then a projectile would burst through the attraction of our planet and rush on into trackless space.

Set Your Aim High.

The harder the tasks you voluntarily accomplish the greater is the reserve you are storing for the future. To doubt is to paralyze progress. To face the problems obstructing your pathway with a courageous smile and determined face will help you and others to remove them. When you are used to making big demands you won't be afraid of big jobs. They are a compliment to your ability. Become a recognized victor in one thing and the world will supply the future with opportunities for the exercise of the power you enjoy. It comes from the proper self-estimate.

Physical Courage.

Physical courage is a common attribute of the male sex, in men and animals. It is displayed to the highest degree in the mother defending her young, when "the female of her species is more deadly than the male." Physical cowardice is uncommon.

Physical courage depends much on the size of the heart, therefore is not within the control of a person.

Moral courage is superior to physical courage—although a man may have both. Often, it needs more courage for a young man to say "No!" than for him to charge a trench.

Admire a girl's blushes and the other girls are apt to exclaim: "I like her cheek!"

DOCTORS ADVISE SPRING TONICS

Say There Is Nothing Equals Iron and Phosphates.

Experienced doctors claim that everyone should take a good tonic in the spring, that during the cold winter months we all eat too much meat, fats, heavy foods and too little fresh vegetables, that the entire system is clogged up, over loaded and over worked, causing thin, impure watery blood and that tired, nervous feeling, pimples and bad complexion.

Honest doctors all over the land have found and are recommending and prescribing phosphates and iron as their spring tonic for the blood and nerves, they say it removes all impurities, unclogs the channels and sends the rich, red life-giving blood through the veins, renewing health, strength and nerve force is nothing else will.

If you are all in, run down, fagged out and your nerves all shot to pieces and the joy gone from life, take Phosphated Iron, the red blood and nerve builder. It will make a new man or woman of you, make you feel like doing things again, renews that youthful feeling, you can almost feel yourself coming back. Try Phosphated Iron today, it has helped thousands and will not disappoint you.

To insure physicians and their patients setting the genuine Phosphated Iron it is put up in capsules only, do not allow dealers to give you pills or tablets. Insist on capsules.

Sold by Evans' Drug store and leading druggists everywhere.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Father O'Boylan received the following interesting letter from Corporal Chas. Kegg, whose mother lives in the rear of St. Francis de Sales school. Charley told Father O'Boylan in a P. S. that his Bible was ruined in the trenches, so the latter mailed him today a complete Bible printed on India paper and bound in morocco. This edition is small enough to be carried in one's inside pocket. The letter is as follows: "Somewhere in France, 'March 19, 1918.

"Father B. M. O'Boylan, Newark, O.:

"Dear Father—Just a few lines to thank you for your most welcome gift, my prayer book, and I thank you in the same spirit it was sent. It will be a companion to me in the long, weary hours we are in the trenches, while we are waiting for God only knows what the next hour will bring forth, for you never know how soon it will be your time to 'go over the top,' perhaps to death; perhaps to glory, but all we know we are doing 'our bit' that the loved ones may be safe from what we have seen over here—beautiful churches just a shell of what they were. Oh, I can't talk of it for it would be hard to believe it unless you could see the results of the boches hate. It is horrible. I hope to God that fair America never has to go through what France has in the last three years. The more one sees of this country the more admiration one has for the French people for the way they hold up under the load they carry. But France is still smiling through her tears, and with God's help the fight will soon be won. Well, I guess I will close for the time by saying love to all of the folks back home. Yours in the faith, 'Corp. Chas. Kegg, 'Co. I, 166th Inf., Amexforce.

"Co. K, Walter Christensen, 1st Lt. 166th Inf.

"P. S.—Father, will you please send me a Bible? Mine was ruined while we were in the trenches. If you will send the bill to me I will make a remittance to you to pay all cost."

FOR WOMEN WHO WORRY

Worry and "the blues" are usually linked together, and in many cases are due to some functional derangement which if not corrected may lead to more serious ailments. More outdoor life, sleep, water-drinking and a few weeks' treatment with that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will revitalize and strengthen the system and work wonders for any woman. If you are prone to worry and "the blues" try it.—Advertisement.

A STATEMENT

FROM

THE GAS COMPANY TO ITS PATRONS

Last summer this company issued a statement to you which was generally published in all the communities supplied by it, to the effect that you should provide an emergency supply of some other fuel and the means of using it during the extreme winter weather.

A Similar shortage of gas, especially for heating purposes, is probable during the coming winter, with the possibility of a further decline in the available supply as against the increased demand.

The constant and natural growth of the cities and towns in which we distribute gas, has, during the past few years, greatly increased the aggregate number of consumers attached to our lines, while the maximum volume of gas we have been able to produce or purchase has not increased proportionately. The difficulty in obtaining coal and the use of gas for munitions and other war purposes are important contributing factors.

In view of this outlook, we believe it to be our duty to recommend and urge that all our customers using gas for heating purposes in coal furnaces and heating boilers immediately provide themselves with an emergency supply of coal or other fuel, or with auxiliary heating appliances, for use during the colder period of the coming winter.

New fields are not so plentiful and wells do not yield so generously as in former years. It is more than probable that any increased supply which we may develop during the season's field operations will be fully consumed by the demand.

Notwithstanding this we are exerting ourselves to the utmost to meet the requirements of our consumers even though the rates now prevailing in the various communities we serve do not compensate us for these extremely large expenditures.

The Fuel Administration and all other authorities predict that even less coal will be available next winter than during the past winter.

CHARACTER IN LAST WORDS
Final Remarks of Men of Eminence
a Key to Thoughts That Dominated Them in Life.

The schoolmaster spoke in old Alexander Adams' last words, "It grows dark, boys; you may go," the polished man of the world in Chesterfield's "Give Dayrolles a chair," the philosopher in Hobbes, "I am going to take a great leap into obscurity," the ascetic in Thoreau's "I leave the world without a regret," the rebel in Peter Pindar's "Give me back my youth," the poet in Keats' "I feel the flowers growing over my grave," the actor in Quin's "I could wish this tragic scene was over, but I hope to go through it with becoming dignity," the man of action in Cecil Rhodes' "So little done, so much to do," the hero in Lawrence's "Don't give up the ship," the wit in Pelmerston's "Die, my dear doctor! that's the last thing I shall do," the humorist in Doctor Samuel Garth's appeal to his fellow-physicians, "Dear gentlemen, let me die a natural death," the believer in Sir Henry Flavelock's (it is doubtful that Addison said it first) "Come, my son, and see how a Christian can die," the skeptic in Thomas Paine's "I have no wish to believe on that subject," the victorious warrior in Wolfe's "God be praised! die happy," the dictator in Napoleon's "Tete d'armee," the anxious patriot in Pitt's "My country! how I love my country," the stoic in Harriet Martineau's "I see no reason why the existence of Harriet Martineau should be prolonged," the sophisticated villain in Titus Oates' "It is all the same in the end," the plutocrat in Lorenzo de Medici's "Not that, I cannot part with that," the benevolent man in Walter Scott's "God bless you all," the martyr in Sir Henry Vane's "Ten thousand deaths for me ere I will stain the purity of my conscience."

Mental and Physical Work.
Mark Twain wrote as follows on this subject:
"There are wise people who talk ever so knowingly and complacently about the 'working classes,' and satisfy themselves that a day's hard intellectual work is very much harder than a day's hard manual toil, and is rightfully entitled to much bigger pay. Why, they really think that, you know, because they know all about the one, but haven't tried the other. But I know all about both; and so far as I am concerned, there isn't money enough to hire me to swing a pickaxe thirty days, but I will do the hardest kind of intellectual work for just as near nothing as you can cipher it down—and I will be satisfied, too."

Japs Can Tell Provincians by the Roofs.
Foreign visitors to Japan never cease to admire the ingenious way in which the thatched roof is treated. It is said that a well-built roof will last 30 years. The remarkable feature about the thatched roof in Japan is the fact that each province has its own style, so that one familiar with the various provinces might land in the country from an airplane and easily tell the province he was in by the appearance of the ridge poles of the houses. Plants often grow on the straw matting and a crown of blue iris completely covering the ridge pole occasionally is to be seen.

The man who has money to burn might spend it for ammunition.

SENSITIVENESS HURTS A MAN

Affliction Often Results in Absolute Ruin of Persons Who Are Inclined to Be Ambitious.

In an article called "How I Cured Myself of Being Sensitive," a writer says in the American Magazine:

"Wagner, you've got ability," he cried, "but you'll never get anywhere in this world until you quit tearing yourself to pieces! I've watched you for the last three years; twice I've had it in mind to push you up a notch in the office, and every time I've passed you and picked some one else, because I knew you aren't fit to handle other men. No man is fit to handle other men until he has learned to control himself. You can't, you're too blamed sensitive."

"Little setbacks break your heart. A letter of complaint comes in from some customer and you take it as a personal criticism, and lose a day's work brooding over it. You see me in conference with some of the other men and you stab yourself wondering why you weren't invited and imagine that I have turned against you. You hear about some one who is making more money than you, and immediately all far fields loom greener. You're a fairly useful cog in your present job, and it might put me to some annoyance to lose you. But you'll never hold a big job until you can forget your own petty self and learn to laugh when the world takes a crack at you. Hanged if I don't think sometimes it might be better if you were to get out and try your hand somewhere else."

SAME BOTHERSOME WEEDS

Pests to the Aborigines Continue to Be an Annoyance to Farmers Now Tilling the Soil.

When Samuel Champlain earned the gratitude of succeeding generations by keeping a journal as he sailed along the coast from the mouth of the St. Lawrence to Cape Ann he recorded, among other things, the appearance of the fields which the Indian women cultivated not far from the site of the present town of Gloucester, Mass. He described, relates a writer, the hoes used by them, made from the shells of the horseshoe crab, a creature which interested him greatly, and he also told of the weeds which these women grubbed up with their primitive hoes, thus saving their corn, beans and squashes.

Among the weeds he mentioned especially the purslane of which he saw enough and, if he could come back today and inspect the gardens along the Massachusetts shore he would find the same weeds flourishing in the same old way and holding their own against the most modern of farm implements. More than that it would not be surprising if he found fields in which the weeds had gained the upper hand and had smothered the planted crop, whether of beans, squash or corn, and he could well be pardoned if he wondered that agriculture, after more than 300 years, was still helpless against the weeds which he had fought in his day.

Hindoo Prince and Missionaries.
Never shall I forget a frank conversation which I had in his palace with his highness the gaeckwar of Baroda, relates a correspondent. He told me of some of the measures which he has already introduced for the betterment of his subjects and of the difficulties which he had encountered. His admiration for things American is so unqualified as to be almost naive, but I think I was most of all impressed when he said: "I am thinking of calling together the missionaries and asking them to tell me their views on how we can improve the quality of the native priesthood. Then I want to call the priests together and say to them, 'Look at the missionaries. See the sacrifices they are making to help our people. You ought to go out and do the same kind of work.'"

His highness has already established a professorship of comparative religions in the Baroda college for the express purpose of introducing the native religious leaders to other religions with a view of improving the quality of their own.

PREDICTED THAT 50,000 YOUNG MEN WILL REGISTER

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Columbus, June 4.—Approximately 50,000 young men who have become 21 years old since June 5, last year, are expected to register in the state tomorrow for the selective military service. The registration will be conducted by local draft boards between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

Though the estimate of the provost marshal general at Washington would give Ohio more than 55,000 new registrants state draft officials are inclined to discount these figures because of the large number of enlistments of young men nearing draft age since last June. Federal draft officials base their estimates upon the average birth rate for the last 10 years, but Adjutant-General Wood doubts whether such estimate will be correct because of the decrease in the birth rate twenty one years ago during the time of financial depression, and also because immigration has since led to almost nothing during the last four years.

Draft officials to expect, however, that the percentage of alien registrants will be much less than it was among the registrants of a year ago. There are no available figures on the number of young men coming of age during the past year and who have already enlisted, but it is estimated that several thousand have not waited to be called through the draft.

As in the first registration, it is expected that the big industrial centers will furnish the largest percentage of new registrants. Officials believe there will be fewer attempts to evade registration this time than a year ago.

WILL RECONVENE FRIDAY TO CONSIDER THE MATTER

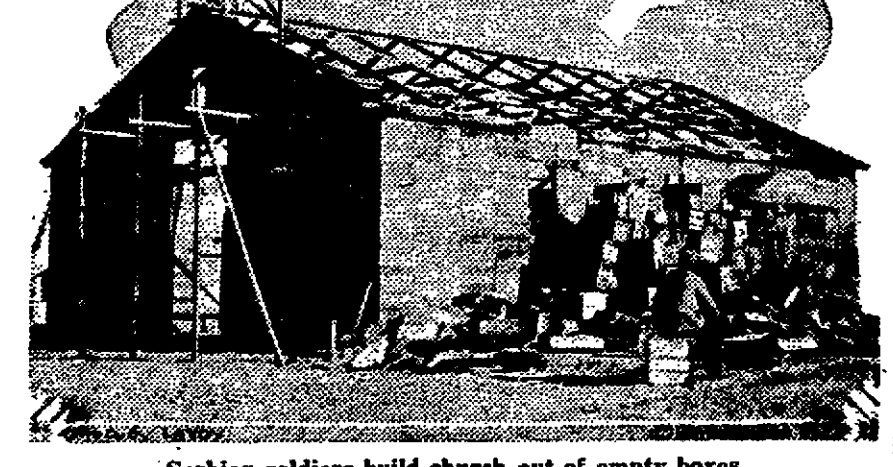

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Toledo, June 4.—Representatives of principal electric railroads in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana, who assembled here to consider applications to state public utility commissions for passenger and freight rates increases equal to those granted steam roads by the federal government, adjourned last night to reconvene Friday in Dayton for final decision.

CHURCH BUILT OF OLD EMPTY BOXES RISES IN SERBIANS' BALKAN CAMP

Serbian soldiers build church out of empty boxes.

Serbian soldiers in the Balkans wanted a church. Building materials were scarce in camp so they collected all of the empty ammunition and supply boxes available, broke them up, and used them as lumber. The picture shows the church partly completed.

old grounds on the other side of the Atlantic too dangerous to be profitable. Thus it was considered the German plan had primarily resulted in defeat.

The other purpose of the Germans it was believed was to strike fear into the hearts of the American people. There was no doubt in the minds of officials that this purpose also had failed altogether of achievement. Reports from Atlantic coast cities showing that enlistment in the navy and naval reserve had increased yesterday and the temper of editorials in the press of the nation was the basis of the feeling that at no time have the American people had such a strong determination to carry the war to a successful end.

In compliance with orders issued yesterday armed craft and airplanes continue their search today for the German submarines. No official report had been received by Secretary Daniels to credit rumors that a submarine had been captured or sunk. With every means at the command of the navy department concentrated on hunting down the raiders, officials said they would not be surprised if results were reported shortly.

LIEUT. BADER IS SENT TO FLYING FIELD IN SOUTH

Upon the completion of his training at an aviation camp in Texas, Lieutenant Eugene Bader took advantage of a short leave to spend a few days with his parents—Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Bader, Granville street. Lieutenant Bader began his preliminary training at the ground school at Ohio State University, being later transferred to Berkeley and San Diego, Cal., and again to Texas. For the past three months he has been flying alone and has mastered all the intricacies of the game—such as looping-the-loop, the spiral drop, etc. Practically all his flying has been done in Curtis machines.

He will leave Friday morning for West Point, Miss., where he will be stationed for a time becoming familiar with other machines and preparing himself for early overseas service.

ALL YOUTHS OF 21 MUST REGISTER WITH LOCAL BOARD

Tomorrow, Wednesday, June 5, is the day set for the registration of all men, who have become of age since last registration day, June 5, 1917. Every male citizen of the United States, who has become of age since the above date is required to register, except those in the army or naval service, under the penalty of one year's imprisonment and may result in the loss of valuable rights and privileges and immediate induction into military service.

The place of registration will be in the room of the court of appeals, third floor of the court house, adjoining the office of the local draft board and the office will be open from 7 o'clock a. m. until 9 o'clock p. m.

MOTHER OF SIX PRAISES TANLAC

Took Son's Advice and Got the Tonic That Brought Back Health and Strength.

"My health is better than it has been for years," said Mrs. Sarah Corbin, 497 West Walnut street, Columbus, "and it is all due to Tanlac. I used to have trouble with my stomach and after eating the food fermented and caused gas that made me feel bloated. The gas pressed up against my heart and I felt short of breath. The pain in my stomach sometimes drove me almost distracted."

"My nerves became all unstrung and I was so cross my children often asked me why I didn't take something for my health. One of my sons brought home a bottle of Tanlac and insisted that I take it. I finally did so and I am glad that I did. The pain and misery in my stomach is all gone and I am now happy at my work. My nervousness has gone and little things don't irritate me any more. Tanlac is surely a great remedy for the stomach and nerves and I am recommending it to all my friends."

If you are in need of a good tonic get Tanlac today. It will do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

Tanlac remedies are being introduced in Newark at Erman's Arcade Drug store. Tanlac may also be procured at the Evans pharmacy (Warden Hotel block, east side square, Newark), and the Hebron Drug store, Hebron, O.—(Adv.)

REPORT HEAVY FIGHTING ON AISNE FRONT

(Associated Press Telegram)

London, June 4.—The line north and south of the Ourcq east of the forest of Villers-Cotterets was the scene of the heaviest fighting Monday on the Aisne front, says the Reuters correspondent with French headquarters in France. German gains were counter-balanced by French gains and the situation is more hopeful.

"Today," continues the correspondent writing Monday night, "the fighting has been hardest along the eastern front of the forest of Villers-Cotterets and southward between the Ourcq and Marne valleys. The thick mass of forest offers great opportunity for the development of German tactics in an advance by infiltration. The Germans attacked in the morning with two divisions, one of which, the 28th, was entirely fresh. The fighting was terribly bitter, centering around the villages of Long Pont, Corcy, Faverolles and Troesnes. Before Long Pont the Germans died. Corcy was taken by the Germans and retaken by the French.

"Faverolles was the scene of a desperate German assault which ultimately was successful, but Troesnes and Corcy, despite repeated attacks, remained in the hands of the French. Our counter-attacks, kept the Germans constantly in check and enabled the line of villages in front of the forest to be maintained.

"South of the Ourcq, the fighting was almost equally obstinate. Toward evening however, the battle diminished in violence, probably because the German infantry was exhausted by the many hours of fighting in the terrific heat and was unable to resume its attacks.

"On the whole, the enemy has nothing to show for his day's work. The only change in the battle line east of the Chateau-Thierry is the drawing in of the German line around Rheims. This line, beginning at St. Leonard on the Aisne-Marne canal, southeast of the city, passes through Musketry Range on a hill immediately east of Rheims. Thence it goes through Betheny to the north and Trois-Fontaines on the north-west and runs southward between the suburb of St. Brice and the city itself to La Haubette. None of these places, except St. Leonard is more than a mile away from the city. The Germans now have an armed circle almost three-fourths of the way around the city."

and at about the middle of the German line along the Marne. The Germans now hold the bank of the Marne from Chateau-Thierry to Verneuil.

FIGHTING EXPECTED.
(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—With American troops aiding the French at two points on the new battlefronts there are indications that the war department had some advance knowledge of the purpose of General Foch, supreme commander, to put American troops into the fight on the new lines. The action at Neuilly in which the Americans participated in thrusting back the German advance, appears to be on the flank of a renewed German effort to press westward. To the north the Germans have progressed directly west on the road from Soissons to Compiègne also. It is thought possible that an effort is now being made to encircle Villers-Cotterets forest which has so far proved a stumbling block in the road of the great turning movement hinging on Soissons which is in progress.

In that case the Americans are at a point where desperate fighting is to be expected and their dash and eagerness may well be of substantial aid to the French in stemming this new thrust to cut off Paris from the battle zones of Picardy and Flanders.

AMERICANS IN FIGHT.
(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches.)
American troops are fighting with the French in holding up the new German rush and already have begun to make their presence strongly felt. One force of Americans, thrown into the battle on the important front between the Ourcq and the Marne, not only stopped an enemy advance into Neuilly wood, between seven and eight miles northwest of Chateau-Thierry, but carried out what the French official statement characterizes as "a magnificent counter-attack" which threw back the Germans north of this wood.

On yet another front—that running east and west along the Marne—the American forces co-operated with the French in hurling back a German battalion which had crept over a foot-bridge to the south bank of the river. The Germans sustained heavy casualties and lost 100 men in prisoners.

The Germans have evidently succeeded in bringing up considerably more of their artillery and are attacking in force along virtually the whole front from the Oise to the Marne.

Desperate fighting developed at many points on this front last night which resulted in the enemy making advances at a few points—notably in the region southwest of Soissons, where he is trying to batter in the tip of the allied salient. The village of Pernant was lost by the French in this area and they had to give a little ground further south. The German attack was held elsewhere.

To the south, between the Ourcq and the Marne, ground was given and taken by both sides. The Americans were in the fighting here, scoring their success at Neuilly wood. Just to the south of this wood the French were obliged to concede the town of Neuilly-La Poterie to the Germans after the place had changed hands several times.

Strong counter-attacks were carried out by the French at other points on this front, and one of these enabled General Petain's troops to recapture the village of Mosloy. In the stretch southward to the Marne the Germans were held from any further advances.

In the German submarine attack on shipping along the American coast the important developments of the day included news of the safety of the steamer City of Columbus, which it was feared had fallen a victim of the raiders, and the landing of a boatload of 19 survivors of the Porto Rican steamer Carolina. There was no definite news of any additions to the list of vessels sunk.

German U-boats in the campaign off the Atlantic coast have accounted for ten vessels, mostly small steamers and schooners since May 25.

There are yet no official or unofficial reports of loss of life due to the sinkings, although part of the crews of several of the smaller vessels and the passengers and crew of the steamer Carolina are missing. When a submarine began to shell the Carolina her 220 passengers and 130 members of the crew took to the boats and is believed they are trying to reach the New Jersey coast.

It is not clear how many submarines have been in action. Most of the vessels were attacked by one, but one captain reports seeing two. Naval officers at Norfolk have received reports indicating five enemy underwater wolves had been operating off the coast.

On the Aisne battle field the German advance is waiting, if it has not already been stopped, before the desperate resistance of the French. Sunday the enemy progress was slight while on Monday the French and Germans gains on the western wing balanced each other. Now that the force of the German blow has nearly spent itself, the offensive is turning into a series of battles for important positions.

Before the forest of Villers-Cotterets and between the Ourcq and the Marne the Germans are making violent efforts to drive the French advantageous hill positions. Villages on the eastern edge of the forest have been taken and retaken by the bitterly contesting forces, but the Germans despite fresh troops are gaining slightly.

The situation north of the Aisne is similar. There the French have recaptured Mont Choisy for the fifth time. German attacks elsewhere between the Aisne and Oise, on the line between Noyon and Soissons have been repulsed. West of Soissons the enemy has been held for no gains, although Berlin, in its latest report claims progress here and to the south.

Heavy attacks by the Germans between Ourcq and the Marne to take the hills around Cocherel broke down with heavy losses. Along the Marne the activity has been centered on the Marne to Rheims the allied troops maintain their positions. Rheims is reported almost three-fourths surrounded by the Germans who are within a mile of the city on the north, northwest, west and south-west and east.

On the British front the fighting still continued to rattle. British airmen continue their bombing operations and have accounted for 22 more German airplanes.

There has been heavy artillery firing on the American sector northwest of Toul but no infantry action. In aerial combats there another German machine has been brought down. An American patrol east of Lunelville, after being surrounded by a superior enemy force fought its way through to the American line, suffering only slight losses.

(Associated Press Telegram)

ALL WERE SAVED.
(Associated Press Telegram)

Boston, June 4.—Officers and crew of the schooner, Jacob M. Haskell, sunk by a German submarine, were landed at New England port by the steamer Greogan today.

(Associated Press Telegram)

New York, June 4.—The long-expected visit of German-armed submarines to American waters has resulted in the destruction of at least 10 vessels flying the Stars and Stripes, according to reports from various ports along the north Atlantic seaboard. The attacks were made by two super-submersibles and most of the vessels were bombed and sent to the bottom last Sunday, although it is known that two of the craft were destroyed prior to May 26. So far as known there has been no loss of life.

Chief interest today, aside from the coast patrol by airplanes and navy craft to prevent a possible recurrence of the raid, centered upon the fate of the 220 passengers and crew of 130 men of the 8000-ton steamer Carolina, of the New York and Porto Rico line. The liner was attacked Sunday night when within 200 miles of Sandy Hook, and as nothing has been heard since her "S. O. S." signals were picked up, her owners assume she is lost. The crew and passengers, in small boats, were reported 35 miles out to sea, headed for the New Jersey coast early today and coast-guard cutters were on their way to verify the report and pick up the survivors, if possible.

Reports that the Savannah liner City of Columbus, also had fallen prey to the lurking menace of the seas lacked confirmation, as was the case of the schooner Samuel W. Hathaway.

A revised list of the toll of the undersea raider follows:
Steamer Texel, of 3210 gross tons, sunk by bombs 60 miles off the Jersey coast Sunday.
Schooner Jacob M. Haskell, of Boston, sunk by shell-fire Sunday, off Barnegat, N. J.

Schooner Edward H. Cole, of Boston, sunk by bombs, 50 miles off Barnegat, Sunday.
Schooner Herbert L. Pratt, of Philadelphia, sunk off Cape Penlopen, Sunday.

Schooner Isabel B. Wiley, of Bath, Me., sunk Sunday off Barnegat.
Schooner Edna, of Machias, Me., picked up as a derelict off Cape May, N. J., May 26.

Schooner Hattie Dunn, of Thomaston, Me., destroyed as a derelict, May 29, off Winter Quarter Shoal light-ship.

Schooner Hauppauge, of New York, sunk 25 miles off Barnegat, May 28.
Steamship Winneconne, sunk off Cape May, May 26.

Steamer Carolina sent wireless calls for help while being shelled by a submarine, Sunday evening, when off Sandy Hook.

Members of the crews of the vessels, on their arrival here and at other ports, agreed generally that the German submersibles were of great size and well armed. Some reported that the craft were about the same size as the U-35, which conducted a raid off Newport, R. I., before America's entry into the war.

Ports along the coast were still closed today by order of Secretary of the Navy Daniels. As soon as the presence of the raiders become known, the navy took prompt measures to endeavor to locate the hostile craft, while more than 100 airplanes and dirigibles today kept up their unceasing vigil of the sea for suspicious looking vessels.

News that the war had been brought almost to the door of the city has excited New York more than any news happening in recent years. There was no disposition to be alarmed, however. The police department in conjunction with military officials, long ago made protective arrangements in the event of either an attack by submarines or airplanes.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 4.—Navy department officials believed today that the submarine or submarines that sank probably more than ten American vessels off the Atlantic coast was on its way back to its base and that for the time being the danger was over.

Secretary Daniels announced in the morning that no more additional advices of submarine activity had reached the department. Warships, submarine chasers and airplanes were scouring the seas today in search of the enemy. Navy officials threw a veil of secrecy over their movements however and requested newspapers to make no mention of their whereabouts.

There is a growing impression here that only one submarine took part in the raid. The navy department has only one report to indicate the presence of more. That is the statement of the captain of the schooner Cole that he saw the periscope of a second U-boat. Mr. Daniels said today that nothing to confirm other reports indicated that from one to five submersibles had been off the coast had been received.

The secretary reiterated his opinion that the purpose of the raid was to create a demand in the United States for the return of American naval craft to home waters. This, he said, was based on speculation and not on any concrete information.

No news has reached the department it was said, indicating that during the eleven days or more the submarine is now known to have been in American coastwise waters that it had any communication with agents ashore. It is understood, however, that the naval service had not neglected the possibility and that every effort to check up what has transpired along the coast is included in the program it is following out.

PICKED UP EMPTY BOAT OF CAROLINA

(Associated Press Telegram)

New York, June 4.—A British steamship arriving here today from Cuba picked up at sea an empty boat of the New York and Porto Rico liner Carolina.

Evidence that the German submarine that attacked the New York and Porto Rico liner, Carolina, shelled her lifeboats, was brought here today by a British steamer from West Indian ports.

The British ship reported that she had picked up at 4 p. m. yesterday off Cape May an empty motor lifeboat belonging to the Carolina damaged by shell-fire.

The hull of the motorboat had been pierced by the fire of the U-boat's guns. One of only three oars found in the boat had been splintered in a way that indicated the use of a machine-gun. There was found in the boat a man's cap and a number of biscuit tins.

Though the name of judges appear on a non-partisan ballot at the general election in November, the candidate must make affidavit that he is allied with the party to which he claims affiliation. McGhee also held. These points have been moot for several years and the attorney general's opinion clears them up.
